

Recommendation

Running your oil level a little lower helps a bigger motor breathe better, leaving a larger area for air to displace when it moves from the motor to the oil tank. This will help with oil carryover and oil blowing out your breather when running for extended distances at higher speeds.